

Huron University College
APPLICATION FOR
John and Gail MacNaughton Prize for Excellence in Teaching
2019

OBJECTIVE: the prize serves to encourage pedagogical innovation and reflection on, and sharing of, the scholarship of teaching and learning at Huron.

This form should be accompanied by a Teaching Portfolio. The committee will also consult the published results of student evaluations of courses and teaching.

NAME: _____

1.) Please describe what you hope to learn about teaching and learning through your proposed project. What is your teaching-and-learning question?

Indicate to which of the following it most closely corresponds. [Please select all that apply]

Classroom practice

Curriculum design

Assignment design

Articulation of learning outcomes

Theories of modes of learning

Delivery modes outside the classroom [textbook, web-based &c]

Assessment of learning

Other [please specify in the space below]:

2.) Please describe the methods you plan to employ to undertake the project. How will you explore and conduct the research into your teaching-and-learning question? What are the main activities planned?

3.) Please describe where your project fits in current conversations and literature about teaching and learning. How is it innovative?

4.) Please provide a rough budget for the planned expenditure of the prize funds if your application is successful. [Categories to consider may include travel, purchase of materials, employment of assistants, purchase of equipment, conference registrations &c.]

5.) Which group or groups would be the chief beneficiaries of your project, and why/how?

6.) How would you disseminate the results of your project to a variety of audiences, and engage them?

7.) How will the project contribute to development of teaching and learning practices in the context in which you teach?

8.) How does your proposed project relate to the objectives of your faculty's academic plan? How does it relate to Huron's overall strategic direction?